

THE 2020 WEEKLY TWEETERBOARD

Monitoring the Conversation About the Presidential Campaigns

The PEORIA Project: Listening to Public Echoes of Rhetoric in America

January 6 – January 12, 2020: The week in which mega-novelist Stephen King asked for retweets to agree "it's all on Donald Trump;" was he referring to impeachment charges, the drone strike, both? Suspense indeed!

The liberal establishment and Democrat party have fundamentally transformed themselves into a party of socialism and communism. Hence, they are antithetical to the US Constitution, the American way of life, and embrace America's enemies. It is past time to #AbandonDemocratParty ~

Bernie Sanders made $1,062,626 in 2016

His charitable donations that year?

$10,600—less than 1% of his income

He campaigns against greed and then hoards 99% of his income for himself

For a committed socialist, he sure doesn't seem to live like one

Chelsea Clinton has made $9 million working on a corporate board with no real world experience

I'm noticing a trend here:

Joe Biden's son—multimillionaire

Hillary Clinton's daughter—multimillionaire

John Kerry's son—multimillionaire

What do they all have in common?

Elizabeth Warren on The View expertly pitches her wealth tax and explains how she'll pay for universal childcare, $800B into public education, etc. without increasing middle-class taxes. The cherry on top is Liz not even acknowledging Meghan McCain's rude interruption attempts.

From the moment he entered the race, Bloomberg has focused much of his primary campaign—which he has all but acknowledged he's not going to win—with an eye towards NOVEMBER.

Indeed, probably the only reason he is "running" is so he can get better deals on broadcast advertising.
