A Blackboard course site has been set up for this course. Each student is expected to check the site throughout the semester, as Blackboard will be the primary venue for outside classroom communications between the instructors and the students. Students can access the course site at <https://blackboard.gwu.edu>. Support for Blackboard is available at 202-994-4948 or helpdesk.gwu.edu.

Academic Integrity

All members of the university community are expected to exhibit honesty and competence in their academic work. Students have a special responsibility to acquaint themselves with, and make use of, all proper procedures for doing research, writing papers, and taking exams. Members of the community will be presumed to be familiar with the proper academic procedures and will be held responsible for applying them. Deliberate failure to act in accordance with such procedures will be considered academic dishonesty. Academic dishonesty is defined as “cheating of any kind, including misrepresenting one’s own work, taking credit for the work of others without crediting them and without appropriate authorization, and the fabrication of information.” Acts of academic dishonesty are a legal, moral, and intellectual offense against the community and will be prosecuted through the proper university channels. The University Code of Academic Integrity can be found at <http://www.gwu.edu/~ntegrity/code.html>.

Support for Students with Disabilities

GW's Disability Support Services (DSS) provides and coordinates accommodations and other services for students with a wide variety of disabilities, as well as those temporarily disabled by injury or illness. Accommodations are available through DSS to facilitate academic access for students with disabilities. Please notify me if you require accommodations. Additional information is available at www.gwu.edu/~dss.

THE COURSE

Political Management Program Objectives

1. Assess a political environment, develop a strategy to achieve specified goals within that environment, and act to carry out that strategy through a campaign.
2. Draw upon a repertoire of effective campaign communication skills.
3. Collect, evaluate, and incorporate empirical evidence to shape and optimize a campaign.

4. Find, engage, and motivate the right people – leaders, professional colleagues, and citizens – to join and contribute to a campaign.
5. Address the recurring dilemmas of political life in a manner that upholds ethical standards as they practice the profession.

Course Description and Overview

Survey of and training for lobbying in the U.S. federal system. Students design a detailed lobbying plan for implementation and practice a variety of influence techniques, including those associated with digital media and communications technologies. The course also covers legal compliance, organizational and public accountability, professional standards and practices. The goal is to equip students with the knowledge and skills necessary to successfully impact the federal policymaking process; how lobbying and organized advocacy fit into the American political process and the development and implementation of advocacy strategies; lobbying by business, labor, public interest groups, and other nonprofit organizations; and, lobbying within and among the Legislative and Executive Branches of the Federal Government.

Course Learning Objectives

1. Understand the legislative process as it relates to lobbying. Students will learn the functions and operations of the Legislative Branch of Government as it relates to lobbying. This will include the House and Senate committee structure and leadership. Students will learn how lobbyists engage in the legislative process
2. Understand how laws are implemented in the Executive Branch. Students will learn the basics of the regulatory process and how lobbyists attempt to engage in the rulemaking. Students will also learn the President's role as a lobbyist as he pursues legislative and budgetary goals and objectives. Students will learn that the President's actions directly impact the lobbying process.
3. Learn lobbying strategy and tactics. Successful lobbyists must develop strategy and tactics in order to succeed on behalf of their employers/clients. Students will learn, through development of Talking Points, Oral Lobbying Presentation, and Strategy Memorandum, how to successfully engage the policymakers.
4. Campaign finance and elections have a significant impact on the policymaking process. Students will learn how the political process impacts the public policy process.

Course Requirements

- Each student is required to produce a one-page fact sheet (also known as "Talking Points"). The topic must be selected and approved by February 1. Grammar and spelling will affect the paper's grade. The fact sheet should include name of organization, contact information, and "ask". The fact sheet must provide necessary background information on the policy issue in question and is due February 22. In addition, each student will verbally present his/her issue as though lobbying a Member of Congress on this date.
- Each student will prepare a five page lobbying strategy memorandum based on the same topic as the Talking Points. The memo must illustrate strategy and tactics for passing (or defeating) a bill through both Houses of Congress and conference. The memo must identify key members of the relevant House and Senate committees of jurisdiction and the leadership, and suggest ways (such as direct lobbying, grassroots, and campaign contributions) to influence those members. The purpose of the memo is to test each student's ability to think strategically in the public policy arena. Grammar and spelling will affect the paper’s grade. The paper must be double-spaced (do not triple or quadruple space between paragraphs or headings) with margins of no more than one inch, maximum 12 point font size, and no charts, graphs, lists, appendices, addenda, footnotes or endnotes. The memo must follow the format located at the end of this syllabus. Failure to follow these directions will automatically result in a lower grade. The memorandum is due, via e-mail, by 9:00 pm, May 3. The highest grade papers late up to five (5) days can receive is B+. Papers more than five (5) days late can achieve a grade no higher than C+.

- Oral participation in the classroom is required. This means the student actively participates and makes a contribution in class discussions.
- There will be a written final examination that will cover class discussion and the required reading on May TBA.
