BASIC INFORMATION AND RESOURCES

Instructor
Mark Meissner is a public relations executive for the PCI Security Standards Council, a global organization, that maintains, evolves and promotes Payment Card Industry standards for the safety of cardholder data across the globe. Prior to PCI, Mark was a crisis and litigation communications advisor to Fortune 100 and emerging industry leaders in the cybersecurity, health and life sciences, energy, transportation, media, real estate and financial services industries. He has in-depth experience in corporate, coalition, association and nonprofit communications and ally development. Mr. Meissner regularly works with corporate leadership teams to develop communications and prepare for high-profile media interviews.

Mr. Meissner has worked with organizational leadership to win in the court of public opinion, bringing data and science to bear and ensuring messaging is clear and resonates with stakeholders. Over his career, he has helped navigate through early- and late-phase crisis situations and mobilized powerful allies to strengthen clients’ reputations in their marketplaces. His work in crisis communications includes programs designed to meet regulatory and legal objectives during major data security breaches, accidents, leaks and government investigations. With reputations on the line, Mr. Meissner has prepared newsmakers for high-pressure interviews with The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, CNN, USA Today, The Washington Post and 60 Minutes.

Mr. Meissner’s professional background is in electoral and congressional politics. He served as campaign manager for former U.S. Rep. Tim Roemer (D-IN) and served as a Senate staffer for former U.S. Sen. Evan Bayh (D-IN). Mr. Meissner was a candidate for U.S. Congress himself in 2002, finishing second in a field of five candidates vying for the Democratic nomination in Indiana’s Second Congressional District. His campaign was hailed by local media as "relentless" and "impressive". He is an adjunct professor at The George Washington University Graduate School of Political Management (GSPM) and serves as a guest speaker on running for local office with The George Washington University Center for Second Service.

Communication
Email or text is the best way to reach me. I am available throughout the semester for scheduled calls and office hours by request. Please do not hesitate to reach out to me for questions and guidance.

Blackboard Site
A Blackboard course site has been set up for this course. Each student is expected to check the site throughout the semester. Students can access the course site at https://blackboard.gwu.edu. Support for Blackboard is available at 202-994-4948 or helpdesk.gwu.edu.

Academic Integrity
All members of the university community are expected to exhibit honesty and competence in their academic work. Students have a special responsibility to acquaint themselves with, and make use of, all proper procedures for doing research, writing papers, and taking exams. Members of the community will be presumed to be familiar with the proper academic procedures and will be held responsible for applying them. Deliberate failure to act in accordance with such procedures will be considered academic dishonesty. Academic dishonesty is defined as “cheating of any kind, including misrepresenting one’s own work, taking credit for the work of others without crediting them and without appropriate authorization, and the fabrication of information.” Acts of academic dishonesty are a legal, moral, and intellectual offense against the community and will be prosecuted through the proper university channels. The University Code of Academic Integrity can be found at https://studentconduct.gwu.edu/code-academic-integrity.

Support for Students with Disabilities
GW’s Disability Support Services (DSS) provides and coordinates accommodations and other services for students with a wide variety of disabilities, as well as those temporarily disabled by injury or illness. Accommodations are available through DSS to facilitate academic access for students with disabilities. Please notify your instructor if you require accommodations. Additional information is available at https://disabilitysupport.gwu.edu/.

In the Event of an Emergency or Crisis during Class
If we experience some an emergency during class time, we will try to stay at this location until we hear that we can move about safely. If we have to leave here, we will meet at Carlyle Square in order to account for everyone and to make certain that everyone is safe. Please refer to Campus Advisories for the latest information on the University’s operating status: http://www.campusadvisories.gwu.edu/.

Attendance Policy
Class attendance and participation is imperative to your success in this class. As crisis work focuses on high-speed decision-making, your participation in class is invaluable to your coursework and learning. While attendance will not be kept, class participation will be a significant part of your final grade. If you must miss class, please make prior arrangements with me.
Out-of-Class/ Independent Learning Expectation
Over the course of the semester, students will spend at least 2 hours (100 minutes) per week in class. Required reading for the class meetings and written response papers or projects are expected to take up, on average, 7 hours (350 minutes) per week. Over the course of the semester, students will spend 25 hours in instructional time and 87.5 hours preparing for class.

Course Evaluation
At the end of the semester, students will be given the opportunity to evaluate the course through GW’s online course evaluation system. It is very important that you take the time to complete an evaluation. Students are also encouraged to provide feedback throughout the course of the semester by contacting any/all of the following:

THE COURSE

Strategic Public Relations Program Objectives
Upon the completion of the Masters in SPR, students will have obtained an enhanced understanding and skills in:

1. Fundamentals of effective, strategic communications;
2. Best practices for writing, media relations and strategic communications planning and implementation;
3. The fundamentals of tactical execution of a strategic communications plan;
4. Working with management and staff/vendors to develop and manage the implementation of effective communications strategies.

Course Description and Overview
The practice of Issues Management involves the intersection of a number of communications and policy disciplines, including environmental scanning, public policy analysis, public policy advocacy, strategic communications, media relations, grassroots mobilization, coalition management and corporate reputation management. This course will explore all the approaches in detail and examine ways in which they work together to further the broad strategic goals of organizations.

The goal of the course is to provide students with an in-depth knowledge of the various elements of Issues Management and to equip them with the practical skills needed to shape public opinion and public policy in order to advance organizational goals.

Course Learning Objectives
1. Understand the procedures and techniques involved in the issues management process, including the dynamics of a strategic response.
2. Understand the crisis and issues management life cycle. Be able to assess the scale and trajectory of a crisis situation and offer public relations-related counsel.
3. Develop the ability to conduct traditional and social media scans to sense and identify potential issues, and develop plans to navigate challenging public relations environments.
4. Learn to think strategically when confronted by limited information and time constraints related to crisis situations.
5. Develop a crisis/issue communications plan.

Course Requirements
Students are strongly encouraged to attend and participate in class. Participation in group work and class discussions is imperative to understanding the crisis and issues management framework. Students will be asked to participate in group assignments as well as work independently on a comprehensive strategic communications plan on behalf of a client of your choosing. Be prepared to invest significant time and effort in the development of your communications plan.
